

Planes Step Up Attacks in South

By GEORGE ESPEY
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — U.S. warplanes are stepping up their attacks on the southern part of North Vietnam during President Johnson's ban on bombing of the Hanoi-Haiphong industrial heartland, it was learned today.

U.S. bombers flew more than 100 missions against the North Monday, nearly double the average number of raids on the southern part of North Vietnam before Johnson's curtailment of the bombing.

Prior to Johnson's order, the number of air missions over the southern part of North Vietnam had been averaging about 60 a day, with an average of 40 to 50 missions flown daily against targets around Hanoi, Haiphong and north to the Chinese border.

One raid Monday made clear that the area of North Vietnam which Johnson left open to attack extends to within 80 miles of Hanoi and some 210 miles northwest of the demilitarized zone. That was the location of the northernmost attack, on a supply target a mile south of the coastal city of Thanh Hoa, and a U.S. military spokesman said it was outside the area covered by the bombing ban.

Johnson in his speech Sunday night announcing curtailment of the bombing said U.S. planes would continue to attack the area just north of the DMZ because of the threat from there to forward allied positions below the DMZ. He said his ban applied to "most" of North Vietnam and to an area in which 90 per cent of the North Vietnamese live.

U.S. planes flew a total of 105 missions against North Vietnam Monday, with the major effort against targets in the area of the Mu Gia Pass, a supply funnel into the Ho Chi Minh trail through eastern Laos. Air Force pilots reported destroying or damaging seven trucks, one railroad tunnel, nine military storage structures and one bridge.

The targets also included three coastal radar sites 36 miles north of Vinh, which is 130 miles north of the DMZ. Pilots reported knocking at least one of them out.

GLEN APPLAGATE

SAN DIEGO — Marine Private Glen R. Applegate, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hilton A. Applegate of Rte. 1, Hope, Ark., was graduated from eight weeks of recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot here.

He will now undergo from two to four weeks of individual combat training and then, after leave at home, will report to his first Marine Corps assignment.

Gold Prices Eases in Europe

LONDON (AP) — The price of gold eased further today in Europe's free billion markets and there was little buying.

The price of gold at the London morning fixing was $37.70, down 10 cents an ounce from Monday's fixing level. The official price is $35 an ounce.

The gold price in Paris dipped to $37.66, down from Monday's $38.08. The quotation was the lowest since the free market opened March 15 with the price hitting $44.36.

Prices were unchanged at Frankfurt, down to $37.50 an ounce at Zurich and eased in Hong Kong.

The price level faced speculators who snatched up whatever amounts of the metal they could get in last month's gold panic, with the dilemma of selling out to cut their losses or hanging on for a long haul.

35,000 U.S. Troops Leaving Europe

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — The withdrawal of 35,000 American soldiers and airmen from Europe accelerated today with the departure by plane of the 24th Infantry Division's 3rd Engineer Battalion.

A commercial jetliner took off from Munich with 214 soldiers, wives and children. Three other flights were scheduled today with a total of 327 passengers.

Their first stop in the United States was to be McGuire Air Force Base in New Jersey, to unload men whose cars had been shipped in advance to Philadelphia. The rest were to continue on to Forbes Air Force Base in Kansas and then to Ft. Riley, Kan.

Another unit, the 5th Battalion, 32nd Armor, is to begin its withdrawal Wednesday.

Two 24th Division brigades, totaling 10,000 servicemen and 12,000 members of their families, are being shifted to Ft. Riley under the redeployment plan announced last December. The plan is to save about $100 million annually in foreign exchange costs.

The 24th Division's move is expected to take until mid-June. An advance party is already in Kansas.

The other air units are scheduled to begin moving in mid-July.

States is planning a new plot to maintain its new colonialism and increasing its troops to reconstruct the South Vietnamese puppet regime and troops.

"The United States is attempting to increase bombing of North Vietnam and a so-called fraudulent proposal for peace talks is aimed at getting rid of isolation from the people of the world."

The army newspaper Quan Doi Nhan Dan quoted by Tass pointed out that Johnson still has not agreed to halt bombings and other military action against North Vietnam, as demanded repeatedly by President Ho Chi Minh's regime before peace talks can begin.

"Our people want peace," Tass quoted the newspaper Quan Doi Nhan Dan as saying, "but real peace must go with genuine independence and freedom. As long as our beloved homeland is overshadowed by American aggression, our country will not have genuine freedom and independence."

Populated Areas Get More Voting Power in Supreme Court Ruling

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Propelled by logic and an extra-large dosage of judicial activism, the Supreme Court has spun out the revolution it began in March 1962 when it gave federal courts jurisdiction over malapportioned legislatures.

If state legislatures must be based on districts that are substantially equal in population, as the court said in June 1964 they must be, shouldn't city, town and county governing bodies that are creatures of these legislatures be bound by the same rule?

It took almost four years and a few false starts, but Monday five justices decided the logic was inexorable.

"The actions of local government are the actions of the state," Justice Byron R. White reasoned. Logically he found little difference between the exercise of state power through legislatures and its exercise by election officials in the cities, towns and counties.

The logical simplicity was what appeared toirk most the three dissenters. Thurgood Marshall, the ninth justice, did not participate.

Potter Stewart scorned the use of "sixth-grade arithmetic" to resolve subtle problems of constitutional law.

Abe Fortas said his colleagues had passed over a complex of values and factors with "the arithmetic simplicity of one equals one."

And John M. Harlan described himself as "frankly astonished at the ease" with which the court brought one man-one vote to grassroots government.

But these were the complaints of dissenters. The die is cast. The remaining question is how cities, towns and counties will get in line with Supreme Court-made law.

At the beginning of 1967 there were 81,253 units of local government in the United States. This includes 3,049 county governments, 18,051 municipal governments, 17,107 township governments, 21,782 school districts and 21,264 other special districts.

The number and variations are staggering. Some 20,000 to Separate But Equal Never a Reality

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Education Commissioner A. W. Ford said Monday the doctrine of "separate but equal" education never had been a reality and never could have been.

Ford said local tax structures, "power structures," and control of the public schools were all in the hands of whites who had not been conditioned to Negro educational problems.

Ford made the remarks in an interview taped for showing tonight on KETS, the state's educational television channel.

"The degree to which a minority differs in appearance from the majority has quite a lot to do with the degree of discrimination," Ford said.

Ford said Arkansas had a better attitude on desegregation than most Southern states.

For also endorsed a statement by the so-called Coleman Report that desegregation should begin at the first grade rather than at the high school level.

Rain and cloudy skies moved over Arkansas Monday night and had covered all of the state by early today.

The U. S. Weather Bureau said there will be occasional rain and a chance of thunder showers through Wednesday.

The rain was brought on by a new storm system developing in Idaho and Utah plus a large high pressure system that is moving rapidly eastward. The new storm system will be slow in moving eastward, the Weather Bureau said.

High temperatures remained in the 60s Monday with El Dorado recording a 67, the state's highest. Harrison recorded this morning's lowest — a 44.

Mena reported 1.35 inches of rain in the 24-hour period ending at 6 a.m. today. Other reports included Fayetteville .33 inch, Harrison .07, Walnut Ridge .03, Pine Bluff .12, Texarkana .86, El Dorado .82, Memphis .06, Little Rock .38 and Fort Smith .26.

the widespread neutrality of congressional Democrats. Only a handful supported Minnesota Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy or New York Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Many have made themselves hard to find as agents of either McCarthy or Kennedy, now the only announced contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination, bombarded their offices with efforts to win their support.

While both McCarthy and Kennedy have criticized Johnson on the war, a third potential candidate, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, has been the President's strong supporter.

Gore suggested this might hurt Humphrey if he seeks the presidential nomination, since the trend within the party seems to be away from all-out support of the war in favor of renewed peace efforts such as Johnson launched Sunday night.

Charged With Taking Bets

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Little Rock Police arrested Ralph H. Lafferty, 46, of North Little Rock Monday and charged him with soliciting bets on horse races.

Lafferty's arrest was the 56th on charges connected with bookmaking since the opening of the Oaklawn Park race meeting Feb. 9. Lafferty was released on $100 bond.

Markets Dip After Big Advance

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was a little lower early Tuesday afternoon as profits were taken on Monday's advance, one of the greatest in market history.

The volume of trading slackened considerably from Monday's 17.73-million-share pace but it was still a fairly active day and the ticker tape was late for a while.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off .99 at 860.26, slicing its worst drop in the morning, 3.18.

Losses outnumbered gains by about 6 to 5 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers expressed themselves as content with the way the market handled profit taking after the 20-point upsurge in the Dow industrials Monday on news of President Johnson's peace move and his withdrawal from presidential contention.

The Associated Press averaged 60 stocks at noon was off .5 at 307.8 with industrials off 1.3, rails unchanged and utilities up .2.

HELEN HELP US!
by Helen Bottel

PASSING THE BUTT
Dear Helen: I was in the girls' rest room minding my own business and putting on lipstick when a girl I hardly even knew suddenly said, "Here, hold my cigarette," I did.
That was dumb. She had seen the vice-principal coming in the door and I hadn't. Guess who got sent home for smoking? Nobody would believe that I don't smoke, and I sure wouldn't flunk on the girl.
I told my folks somebody handed me the cigarette and they can't understand why I'd protect a sneak, and why I won't let them go talk to the principal. I'm almost sorry they believe me, as they're mad enough to get me in an awful mess with the kids. You see, they know who the girl is.
Would you please tell parents that nobody likes a tattletale? —
ACCUSED NON-SMOKER
Dear Parents of ANS: Leave it lay. But this time the principal probably knows which girl was the smoker, so let your daughter earn points for L. T. Lawrence.
Mrs. Weir Owens, Nashville, was a weekend visitor with friends in Hope.
Mrs. W. B. Huddleston has returned home from a Texarkana hospital.
Mrs. Wilson Cannon, Monahan, Tex., and Mrs. Ethel Polk, Stephens, visited Mrs. Roy Sutton and Miss Pearl Polk last week and were the house guests of Miss Sue Wesson.
Misses Kay Harmon and Pat Phurson, U of A students, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Harmon last week during spring holidays.
Dear Helen: The letter from "Scared" might have been written by me at age 16. I too was deathly afraid of everything—dark streets, getting my drivers' license, crowds.
Now, at 21, I'm still rather timid in certain situations, but I've changed myself radically. May I share with "Scared" the steps I took?
1. Get a new self-concept. Determine your strong and weak points. Work on both. A person who respects himself will be respected by others.
2. Get involved. Remember others are afraid too, and need help.
3. Dare yourself to do that which you fear, provided it's sensible and for your own good. If you fail, learn to laugh at your mistakes, avoiding self-pity.
4. Talk about your fears, as Helen says. You'll discover you aren't alone.
5. Read up on psychology. It helps you know yourself.
6. Love! Love yourself and your fellowman. Accept friendship without suspicion.
Thank you, Helen, for letting me expand on your good answer. I've learned you can change neurotic to normal if you meet your problems head-on. — KNOWS

Judge Slips Off Bench

SETTLED IN CHAMBERS.
By Honor Tracy. Random. $4.95.
As a judge in a divorce court, Sir Toby Routh considers himself a guardian of society's moral fabric, and has a tendency to be quite harsh on philandering husbands.
In his private life, behind his facade of righteous rectitude, he is something of a bore and a boor, a fact which seems to account for his wife Leila's affection for the bottle.
When Gerda, a young opera singer from Vienna—a romantic, red-haired baroness—first meets Sir Toby he doesn't realize how stuffy he really is. She enters quite willingly into an affair with the old boy, and he begins acting like a sophomore on vacation.
The judge naively believes his fall from grace is a secret, although most of his affluent neighbors and a gossip writer for a large London newspaper are among those who have caught on to the situation.
Miss Tracy's humor in this book is less acid than in some of her other works, and for that reason is more enjoyable.

Bob Thomas at the Movies

By GENE HANDSAKER
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Sex hints are good "Pillow Talk," "Beach Blanket Bingo." So is violence "Battleground," "Gunfight at the OK Corral." But nobody knows for sure what makes a really great movie title.
"Naming a movie," says a studio veteran, "is more agonizing than naming a baby. It means many moments of meetings and millions of miles of memos."
Producers of a Monkees film are still so undecided they're shooting it under the tentative title "Untitled." For a good title can mean thousands of dollars at the box office.
An Edward G. Robinson picture about a syphilis cure attracted almost nobody as "The Story of Dr. Erlich." Retitled "Dr. Erlich's Magic Bullet," suggesting Robinson's past gangster roles, it drew respectable business.
A current trend is to long, oddball titles:
"Darling Lili, Or Where Were You the Night You Said You Shot Down Baron Von Richthofen?"—A World War I comedy starring Julie Andrews.
"Can Hieronymus Merkin Ever Forget Mercy Humppe and Find True Happiness?"—filling in far-off Malta with Anthony Newley as producer, director and star.
Such kooky titles are intended to suggest uproarious comedy. But they're no box-office guarantee. "Oh Dad, Poor Dad, Mama's Hung You in the Closet and I'm Feeling So Sad" is said to have been the trend-setter—and a bomb.
Short titles had a vogue "Stagecoach," "Shane," "Hondo"—and still pop up. The American—title "P.N." is the leading character's initials. For British audiences, distributors—often the final arbiters on titles—are calling it, more safely, "New Face in Hell."
"Oklahoma!" may have started some moguls' liking for exclamation points: "McLintock!" "Support Your Local Sheriff!"
Studios long have circulated scripts among employees, sometimes offering a $50-$100 prize for the best title. Disney employees volunteered 250 alternatives for "Car-Boy-Girl." From four, including "Car No. 53" and "Herbie," young Disneyland customers made the final choice: "The Love Bug."
Some studio veterans think the success of the picture makes the title rather than the other way around. Says one: "Bridge on the River Kwai"

Koreans Call Up Reserve

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — The South Korean government activated a 2.5-million-man reserve corps today as part of its military buildup triggered by the North Korean commando raid on Seoul in January.

The reserve corps will augment South Korea's standing armed forces of 600,000 men and its 45,000-man police force in the struggle against stepped-up North Korean infiltration.

Gibson Is Ready for Cardinals

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
You can start the baseball season any time, Mr. Commissioner. Bob Gibson's ready.

The Old St. Louis Cardinals' World Series hero of last year pitched seven overpowering innings against the Chicago White Sox in an exhibition game Monday. His only regret was that Manager Red Schoendienst didn't let him finish.

"I felt fine and could have gone nine innings," the big right-hander said after the Cardinals' 3-1 victory. Gibson gave up only five hits and one walk while striking out four. In addition, he retired the last 13 batters he faced.

In other games Monday, Boston beat Atlanta 1-0, Houston edged Oakland 2-1, the New York Yankees shaded Detroit 6-5, Pittsburgh nipped the New York Mets 4-3, Philadelphia crushed Minnesota 8-1, Baltimore took Washington 5-2, the Chicago Cubs outslug Los Angeles 9-4 and California nosed out Cleveland 10-9.

Gibson, who won three World Series games over the Red Sox last year, has been named by Schoendienst to open the season for the Cardinals next week against Atlanta.

Mike Shannon provided the muscle in the St. Louis attack, with a homer and a double among his four hits, raising his spring batting average to .390.

The Red Sox also got a strong pitching performance from Gary Waslewski, who set down the Braves on seven hits in the seven innings he worked. Reggie Smith, who had three hits for Boston, drove in the only run of the game in the first inning with a single.

Bob Aspromonte scored the winning run for Houston, coming in on Hector Torres' squeeze bunt with one out in the ninth after he had doubled and moved to third on the throw to second.

Steve Witaker's two solo home runs off Denny McLain beat the Tigers for the Yankees. Fritz Peterson was the winning pitcher despite giving up homers to Ray Oyler and Jim Price.

Jose Pagan's run-scoring single in the eighth, his third hit of the game, drove in Pittsburgh's winning run. Manny Jimenez had a two-run homer for the Pirates.

Richie Allen had a homer and two doubles while Oddinbelle had two homers and a double in the Phillies' slugfest triumph over the Twins. Ellis had five runs batted in, all told.

Curt Blefary hit a homer and Boog Powell had a two-run double for the Orioles. Frank Coggins had two triples for the Senators in their losing cause.

The Cubs scored five runs in the ninth, then survived a mododger ninth to win by a run.

Don Kessinger's homer snapped a 4-4 tie, then an error by Rocky Colavito let in the final two runs of the inning.

Rick Reichardt had three runs batted in during the last two innings to lead California to a comeback win over the Indians. The Angels pounded out 17 hits, 14 off starter Sam McDowell.

Lonborg Is Determined to Return

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP) — Ailing Jim Lonborg's recuperation is right on schedule in his determined bid to be back pitching for the Boston Red Sox by May 15.

Lonborg, who plays 27 holes of golf daily, gets in plenty of swimming and works with weights as part of his rehabilitation, plans to throw from the mound Wednesday for the first time this spring.

The big right-hander, who suffered a serious left knee injury in a skiing accident last December, will pitch lightly before the Red Sox wind up their Winter Haven exhibition schedule against the Oakland Athletics.

When the Red Sox break camp Friday, Lonborg will head for the Louisville training site at Deland, Fla., to continue his special therapy program and workouts until the club reaches Boston in mid-April.

Hope Golf Team Loses Close One

By RALPH ROUTON
Star Sports Writer

A close defeat is a bitter pill to take, but the Hope High School golf team experienced a narrow 9½-8½ loss to Camden yesterday on the Camden Country Club course.

The points were tight throughout the match, right down to the final hole. It was the second straight loss for the team, which now has a 1-3 record, but the linksters get a chance this afternoon against Arkadelphia for their first conference victory.

Medalist for the match was Ralph Routon with an 81, followed closely by Danny Reyenga's 84. Terry Hairr and Mike Mattox also played in the match, and Mattox beat his opponent in his first day to take part this year. Routon and Reyenga earned 4 points while Ted Gammill and Arlis Palmer of Camden picked up 5, and Hairr and Mattox halved with John Scott and Dan Fenwick of Camden 4½-4½.

This afternoon, weather permitting, the HHS golfers play host to 4-AA Arkadelphia at the Hope Country Club course, and the match should begin at 2:15 p.m.

RESULTS
Ralph Routon, Hope, tied Ted Gammill, Camden, 1½-1½; Arlis Palmer, Camden, dtd. Danny Reyenga, Hope, 2-1; Routon and Reyenga, Hope, tied Palmer and Gammill, Camden, 1½-1½.

John Scott, Camden, dtd. Terry Hairr, Hope, 3-0; Mike Mattox, Hope, dtd. Dan Fenwick, Camden, 2½-½; Mattox and Hairr, Hope, dtd. Scott and Fenwick, Camden, 2-1.

Team totals: Camden 9½, Hope 8½.

Little Doubt Orioles to Be Contender

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — "Our problem," said Baltimore's Hank Bauer last month, "is to get out of spring training healthy."

"If we stay sound," added Orioles' superstar Frank Robinson, "I think we're going to win it."

A few days later, the Orioles' plane lost an engine on the way to an exhibition game in Sarasota. Then Jim Palmer's pitching shoulder went lame—and Manager Bauer's suntan began to fade.

When spring training began, it was generally agreed that if the Orioles remained healthy they would be back in the thick of the 1968 American League race after a nightmarish fall. Everything happened to Baltimore in 1967—and none of it was good.

Palmer, Dave McNally and Wally Bunker, who each had pitched a World Series shutout over Los Angeles in 1966, were shelved by sore arms.

Triple Crown winner Robinson suffered a concussion in a baseline collision, sat out a month and played the last two with double vision.

Boog Powell, winner of the AL Comeback of the Year award the previous year, topped from a .287 average, 34 home runs and 109 runs batted in to .234, 13 homers and 55 RBI.

The Orioles crawled home in a sixth place tie with Washington, 15½ games off the pace. But their troubles weren't over. Center fielder Paul Blair, the league's No. 5 hitter, went to Puerto Rico to play winter ball—and broke his ankle.

Bauer, beginning his fifth year as the Orioles' pilot, came to camp with fingers crossed. The three sore-armed pitchers were throwing without pain, Robinson's vision was normal, Powell was determined and Blair was itching to play after bouncing back from an operation.

The Orioles, still young and strengthened during the winter by a multi-player trade with Chicago, could go all the way if Palmer's arm trouble isn't serious or contagious—and if Powell bounces back to help Frank Robinson and Brooks Robinson carry the offensive load.

The lineup probably will be the same as last year, with the exception of shortstop, where slick-fielding Mark Belanger takes over for Luis A. Garcia. Aprilie was traded to White Sox, with outfielder Russ Snyder and pitcher John Altias, for infielder Don Buford and pitchers Bruce Howard and Roger Nelson.

Powell will be back at first base, Dave Johnson, .247, at second and Brooks Robinson, .269, at third.

Says Russia Will Win Olympics

By WAYNE FALIGOWSKI
Albany Democrat-Herald

Written for Associated Press
ALBANY, Ore. (AP) — Dyrrol Burleson hopes to make the American Olympic team this year for the third time but he says, "we'll lose, with the Russians again dominating the games."

"In the track and field portion of it we'll probably score well," he said. "But the Russians concentrate on sports that are held in the Olympics. They don't play football or baseball, something the U.S. would surely dominate if such sports were held. As for the Russian athlete himself, an athlete is an athlete."

Burleson, now 27, ran his first mile under four minutes in 1960 at Eugene, Ore., when he was a sophomore at the University of Oregon.

Burleson has gone under 4 minutes 12 times.

He ran sixth in the 1,500 meters in Rome and fifth in the Tokyo Olympics four years ago.

Burleson says that on the threatened Negro boycott of the Olympics, "I have to sympathize somewhat with them. But Bob Hayes (world record sprinter and pro football player) put it quite nicely when he said that athletics have given Negroes an opportunity to excel. They have gotten economic benefits... the decision to boycott the games should be an individual judgment alone."

They fell in love with her at a horse sale a year ago and scraped together the $1,100 asking price. From then on, what happened to Annabelle shouldn't happen to a dog.

Rimstead and Ross formed a jazz band to follow her around; they enlisted the services of wrestler Sweet Daddy Siki as a bodyguard; entertainers wrote songs about her; she was the subject of a coming-out party.

Monday night they threw a press reception at a ritzy hotel to announce her entry into the Derby, to serve mint juleps and, incidentally, to sell shares.

Trainer Jim Smith fielded questions about his wonder horse.

"She's eating well, about 10 to 12 quarts of oats a day. She is in fine shape, resting well. In fact, eating and resting is what she does best."

"She has never run the mile and a quarter before," Smith said, hedging on her workouts.

"She works best in company, and we haven't worked her out with another horse yet—maybe next week."

Rimstead and Ross own Byline Stables—Annabelle is their only horse—and their colors Rimstead describes as "white with black blotches."

Annabelle to Run in the Ky. Derby

TORONTO (AP) — Annabelle announced her decision to run in the Kentucky Derby Monday.

Annabelle is a 3-year-old filly, whose ears join her head at right-angles and whose owners are newspaper men Paul Rimstead and Fred Ross.

They fell in love with her at a horse sale a year ago and scraped together the $1,100 asking price. From then on, what happened to Annabelle shouldn't happen to a dog.

Rimstead and Ross formed a jazz band to follow her around; they enlisted the services of wrestler Sweet Daddy Siki as a bodyguard; entertainers wrote songs about her; she was the subject of a coming-out party.

Boxer Plans a Comeback

TORONTO (AP) — Former New England welterweight champion Ted Whitefield of Amherst, Mass., launches a boxing comeback attempt tonight in a scheduled 10-round bout with Dave Dittman of White Plains, N.Y., at Four Seasons Arena.

Whitefield, who also directs the annual BAA indoor track meet, which like the Marathon is sanctioned by the AAU, also was disturbed that the AAU long distance running committee ignored the Boston run as a trial for the Olympics.

The AAU has set regional trials for San Francisco, Culver City, Calif., Minneapolis, Atlanta City, N.J., Detroit, and Hot-spring, Mass. The final will be held Aug. 18 in Alamosa, Colo.

Entries Pour in for 72nd Boston Meet

BOSTON (AP) — Entries are pouring in for the 72nd annual Boston A.A. Marathon April 19.

But race officials are disturbed by the AAU action in scheduling an Olympic trial in San Francisco just two days after the Patriot's Day Hopkinton-to-Boston run.

"At best the decision was inconsiderate; at worst, a deliberate effort to scuttle Eastern prominence in long distance running," BAA President Will Cloney told a news conference Monday.

"The Boston race is famous the world over and is the oldest outside of the Olympic Marathon itself," Cloney said.

"Scheduling a tryout on the Coast robs a few Western runners of the chance to compete in a race that carries tremendous prestige."

Two Tennis Stars Have Turned Pro

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — "I don't think people look on a sport these days unless money is involved," says Billie Jean King, the tennis queen who could make $70,000 playing the game during the next year.

Mrs. King, Ann Haydon Jones of England, Francoise Durr of France and little Rosemary Casals of San Francisco signed contracts Monday to play with the new National Tennis League.

Also joining the pros was Australian Roy Emerson who could earn up to $100,000 for each of the next two years.

Contracts for the five were announced by George MacCall, former United States Davis Cup captain who is now president of the pro group.

Five players previously under contract are Rod Laver, Ken Rosewall and Fred Stolle, all of Australia, Andres Gimeno of Spain and former U.S. champion Pancho Gonzales.

The NTL makes its United States debut in a tournament at the Forum here, April 7, 9 and 10 with much of the interest centered on the girls.

Billie Jean believes the entry of the women will bring more interest in tennis among younger girls.

"It should create motivation and more purpose," she declared. "In this country, if you're a pro, you're somebody. If you're an amateur, you're nobody."

She also looks forward to open tournaments such as those in England this year ... at Bournemouth later this month and at Wimbledon in July.

MacCall did not divulge the exact money involved in the contracts and the earnings ultimately will reflect how the players do in the tournaments.

He did say Mrs. King was guaranteed between $40,000 and $50,000 with the opportunity to earn up to $70,000. The other women are expected to earn in the $25,000 vicinity and Emerson, with a guarantee of about $75,000, could earn up to $100,000 for each year of his two-year pact.

Wisconsin Offers Shadow Contests

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer
MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Democrat Eugene J. McCarthy — his real rival looming in elections to come — and Republican Richard M. Nixon checked their White House credentials today in a Wisconsin presidential primary that offered only shadow contests.

Chief among the shadows: Lyndon B. Johnson, the President whose announcement that he will not run again turned Wisconsin and Democratic politics from a battleground into a maze.

Republicans and Democrats, even men in the McCarthy camp, said the President undoubtedly would get more votes in Wisconsin than he would have had he remained in the presidential race. Johnson's name remains on the ballot.

McCarthy said he thought most Wisconsin voters had their minds made up and wouldn't change them despite the President's announcement.

"What happened might make some minor changes in the results, but I don't think they'll be measurable," he said.

But the primary was the first test of voter sentiment toward a president who has decided to stand aside. Wisconsin politicians in both parties expected a sizeable vote of sympathy and compliment.

Should that Johnson vote be large, McCarthy said, he would have to "go on to Indiana and say this was not a real political test, I suppose."

Wisconsin voting begins in some areas at 8 a.m. EST and winds up at 9 p.m. EST.

In Madison, the state capital where the University of Wisconsin campus has seen several anti-war demonstrations, a municipal referendum faces voters on Vietnam issues.

The referendum question asks whether there should be "an immediate cease fire and withdrawal of the United States troops from Vietnam, so that the Vietnamese people can determine their own destiny."

Indiana holds the beginning of the real Democratic contest. For there, on May 7, New York Sen. Robert F. Kennedy will run against McCarthy in a Democratic primary matching the

Thinks New Muskies Must Work Hard

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Vern Mikkelsen said it when he accepted the general managership of the Minnesota MMuskies' basketball team Monday, and nobody disputed it.

"It will take a lot of hard work ... a lot of promotion. It won't be an easy task," Mikkelsen said of the job before him in winning paying customers for the Muskies, who were everything but a box office success in their first American Basketball Association season.

President Larry Shields appointed Mikkelsen to replace the resigned Eddie Holman, adding another touch of local flavor designed to win greater acceptance for the Muskies.

Mikkelsen, 39, leaves a successful Minneapolis insurance business to undertake the Muskies' image-building job. He admitted Monday, "I had to do a little soul-searching."

Baseball's Kralick Says He's Retired

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Jack Kralick, former American League pitcher, says he has filed retirement papers from baseball and is selling insurance for North American Life Assurance Co. of Toronto.

Kralick said, "I am definitely through with baseball and definitely committed to the insurance business."

He once pitched a no-hit, no-run game while with the Minnesota Twins, allowing just one base on balls that cost him a perfect game. It was against Kansas City Aug. 2, 1962.

The next year Kralick was traded to Cleveland in a deal for Jim Perry.

The Indians sold Kralick to the New York Mets last season and the southpaw wound up his career in the Mets' farm system.

two dissenters who have suddenly become the top contenders.

That rivalry led McCarthy to program an election-day campaign mission to Omaha, Neb. He and Kennedy will meet on May 14 in the Nebraska presidential primary.

McCarthy said he could not guess whether Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey would now join the battle for the Democratic nomination. "I would say today that there certainly are people who would be ready to support him," he said.

McCarthy looked beyond Wisconsin, too, in an election eve address to the nation, a televised speech which began with kind words for Johnson.

In a broadcast which cost his campaign treasury $72,000 McCarthy said Johnson was a man committed to peace and had proved it by announcing Sunday night that he would not seek nor accept renomination. He said that erased any possible doubt that there might have been a political purpose in Johnson's decision to de-escalate the war in Vietnam.

"It would very well have been his most direct and positive action in the interest of the United States of America," McCarthy said.

Directors of Agencies Told of Budget Cut

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Steve Cummings of Fayetteville, president of the Arkansas Association of Community Action Agency Directors, said Monday that several directors had been advised of budget reductions and that plans were under way to try to halt reductions.

Cummings said some of the 23 local community action agency directors had been advised of reductions as high as 30 per cent.

Cummings said he and other group officers planned to meet with Office of Economic Opportunity and state Labor Department officials to protest further reductions.

Pulaski, Crawford, Jackson, White, Faulkner, Carroll, Madison and Washington counties were experiencing the greatest immediate cutback according to Cummings.

Haller's New World

VERO BEACH, Fla. — (NEA) — Perspective is important to Tom Haller. For seven years he looked out from behind a mask stenciled with the brand of the San Francisco Giants.

Now it's the Los Angeles Dodgers and a whole new world. They got him in a trade this past winter, which didn't exactly surprise Tom.

"A ballplayer isn't a dummy," says the tall teacher who received his bachelor of science degree from Illinois after he was already in professional baseball. "He sees and analyzes the situation. He also reads the papers and gets the drift."

"The Giants had an excess number of catchers. I was the oldest of the bunch, at 31. I started talking to Chub Feeny (vice-president of the Giants) about the possibility of being traded at winter major league meetings in Mexico City."

Tom wasn't there as a tourist. His perspective on baseball also involves the view from the top — statesmanship. Tom is the officially designated player representative of the National League (his counterpart for the American League is Steve Hamilton, the gray-haired lefthander of the New York Yankees).

And every night Tom Haller sleeps better knowing that Marvin Miller is pitching the ball for the players. Marvin Miller is the pencil-mustached labor expert who became executive secretary of the baseball players association a couple of years ago at $50,000 a year. "The biggest step forward we ever made," says Haller. "It creates a real good atmosphere because it takes the pressure off the player representatives as far as talking grievances with the owners. If we run into a sticky problem, we call in Marvin."

At the meetings, the players effected a 30-point pact with the owners that included such items as a $10,000 minimum salary, a raise in meal money from $8 to $12 and a hike in "Murphy" money (for incidentals during spring exercises) from $25 to $40.

"The experience of negotiating at that level," notes Tom, "has given me a little more insight into baseball."

It has also helped him rationalize the trade that sent him from the Giants, the only organization he was in for 11 years in professional baseball, to the Dodgers.

"This is also a good experience for me," he says. "I'd like to manage in the majors some day. You'll never find me coaching because I couldn't afford the drop in salary. And by going to another club, you get around and see other personalities of baseball."

Haller, a .250 hitter who specialized in hitting the long ball for the Giants, has also been able to take a more objective view of his old club now that he's not a part of it. Packed with stars like Willie Mays, Willie McCovey, Orlando Cepeda, Jim Ray Hart, with pitchers like Juan Marichal, Gaylord Perry and Mike McCormick, the Giants have been one of the most frustrating teams in baseball. They have finished second in the National League each of the last three years.

"The Giants," analyzes Tom, "beat themselves too many times on defense. And I never could understand why, with Candlestick Park favoring a lefthand power hitter, they only had one (McCovey) besides myself."

By implication also, the Giants didn't exactly pull together all the time. "Baseball," says Tom, "is a team effort. It's very important to get a winning type of thinking. The little skills make the difference. If there's a man on second and nobody out, the hitter who's not a team ballplayer swings immediately for the RBI. The team ballplayer sacrifices two strikes trying to get the guy (the runner) over to third."

And how do the Dodgers, his present employers, strike him? "In this camp, we stress more fundamentals."

Tom Haller, who has never been on a second division club, is already on his way to sounding like a manager.

This Squeeze Works Somehow

Irritations Major Cause Of Conjunctivitis

In most bridge games South, holding today's hand, would ruff the second spade and run off all his trumps. East would have to make four discards and the chances are that one of them would be a diamond whereupon all South's diamonds would be good and he would make five odd.

An expert defender would not let a diamond go and would hold South to his contract, but an expert South would find a way to develop a squeeze against East.

He would cash three rounds of trumps as a starter. Then he would give up a club trick in order to prepare for the possible squeeze. He might give it up by playing ace and jack of clubs, but a more elegant line would be the submarine play of the club jack first. In either case South would have a further plan which would be to play and ruff a third spade in case the defense didn't lead the third spade for him. He could accomplish this by leading a diamond to dummy.

Then he would cash his last trump or trumps and come down to two diamonds, a high one and deuce, in dummy and three diamonds to the queen in his own hand. East would be down to three cards and would have to let a diamond go in order to hang on to a high spade.

The two points of interest in this play are that South conceded a trick early in order to make the squeeze possible and that he made sure a third spade was led so that West could not hold a high spade and protect his partner from the squeeze.

It is even more interesting to note that the expert would surely make his overtrick and that the player who did not work out the squeeze would probably make the same overtrick because of careless defense.

Q—The bidding has been:
West North East South

1♥ Pass 3♥ ?

You, South, hold:

♠ AKQ654 ♣ AKQJ1074

What do you do now?

A—Bid four clubs only. Your opponents will surely go on to four hearts and give you a chance to look as if you are being pushed into a five club sacrifice.

TODAY'S QUESTION

You bid four clubs. West bids four hearts and your partner doubles. What do you do now?

Win with Jacoby! Oswald Jacoby, co author with his son Jim of (Name Paper's) popular column, "Win At Bridge," has written a 64 page book full of expert advice for his readers. Q—What is conjunctivitis? What causes it? What happens if it is not treated? Why would my doctor order warm compresses to my eyes?

A—This is an inflammation of the mucous lining covering the inner surface of the lids and reflected back over the white portion of the eyeball. It may be caused by any kind of irritation, such as rubbing the eyes with dirty or sweaty fingers, exposure to ultra violet light or direct sunlight, overindulgence in alcohol, errors of refraction, allergies and infection. If it is not treated, it is likely to become chronic. Although warm compresses sometimes help, most doctors prefer cold compresses applied for 15 to 20 minutes three times a day.

Q—My eyes feel scratchy. Could this injure my eyes? An eye specialist had me get some eye drops but they did not help. Is there any cure for this condition?

Q—When you feel as though a foreign body is in your eye, your doctor should determine whether such a body is present or the feeling is due to conjunctivitis. A foreign body can injure the eye by scratching the cornea and causing a corneal ulcer. Conjunctivitis won't injure your eye but it is very uncomfortable. The treatment depends on the cause. In most victims soothing eye drops relieve the distress. If an infection is present, yellow oxide of mercury ointment or an antibiotic may be needed. If the cause is an allergy, contact with the allergen must be eliminated.

Q—What are steroid injections and what are they given for?

A—Steroid hormones are drugs of the cortisone group. They are given to combat acute inflammatory conditions but are not so valuable for chronic inflammations because of their undesirable side effects. These include moon face, peptic ulcer and osteoporosis.

Q—Is it true that cortisone causes cancer?

A—No. If this were true the Food and Drug Administration would not permit its sale.

Q—My son had cat-scratch fever. The lymph nodes in his right armpit had to be opened and drained. What is the cause of this disease? How does it affect the cat?

A—This misnamed disease is caused by a virus that is common in our environment. It could just as well be called pin scratch or thorn scratch disease. It doesn't affect the cat any more than it affects the pin that carries it unawares.

LBJ Seems to Have Peace of Mind

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Lyndon B. Johnson has served his first day as a "lame duck" President—and managed to make it look easy.

If Johnson entertained any private misgivings Monday about his "completely irrevocable" decision to shun another race for the country's highest office, they were totally camouflaged.

In fact, the Chief Executive looked and acted like a man who had just invented peace of mind, peace of soul, or both. He seemed relaxed, confident and happy.

Often labeled an impatient man, quick to anger when discomfited, he remained unruffled even when a mishap involving the White House press corps—a traditional adversary of all presidents—kept him an immobile prisoner in his own airplane for more than half an hour.

Although it usually is assumed there is little brotherly love between Johnson and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York, who covets his job, even mention of Kennedy's name failed to draw sparks.

Johnson, when asked if he would honor the senator's request for an early face-to-face meeting, simply replied, "Surely."

When a reporter then inquired if the President had any particular meeting time in mind, Johnson appeared the soul of magnanimity and accommodation.

"Whenever it is convenient for him," he said.

Observers have noted in the past that Johnson has seemed to find new zest for life—and greater equanimity—after resolving, to his satisfaction, major problems. That would seem to be the case now.

He has "crossed that bridge"—a phrase he repeatedly used to describe his possible 1968 candidacy—and he gives every sign of being relieved that he reached the farther shore safely.

For many reasons, Monday wasn't a typical day in Johnson's life as President. But neither was it unusual. He flew to Chicago on short notice—par for the recent course—and addressed the National Association of Broadcasters.

Even with the scant notice, one might have expected the President to be greeted at some point by sign-carrying antiwar pickets.

In truth, he got a catcall or two when he walked through the packed lobby of the Conrad Hilton Hotel—but he also got a lot of cheers that somehow sounded more sincere and enthusiastic than many in the recent past.

It was easy to imagine that a lot of Americans had been personally touched by Johnson's surprise disavowal of politics—and that these cheering people either were sorry about his decision or, for one reason or another, felt he had grown a few inches in the process, earning an extra measure of respect.

Republicans Want to Give Cities Help

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The appearance of unity in the Republican party with Richard M. Nixon breezing along toward the presidential nomination obscures deep divisions in the party on issues before Congress.

In the big fight over spending cuts, a sizable group of House Republicans is trying to counter the meat-ax approach favored by the GOP leaders with a plan to plow some savings into programs to help the cities.

The group has set up a staff, conducted hearings and welded a program of cuts totaling $6.5 billion, of which $2.5 billion would be used to expand programs to meet "urgent human needs and the urban crisis."

"We need a new set of priorities," says Rep. Charles E. Goodell of upstate New York, a leader of the effort, "one that recognizes the enormous financial difficulties facing us but which also recognizes the terrible human waste which is resulting from past and current inattention."

About 40 Republicans, mostly younger ones and those from the suburbs, have indicated an interest in such an approach. But the party hierarchy is lined up solidly behind a move to slash spending without permitting any increases.

On no issue, however, is the split in Republican ranks sharper than on the open-housing provision in the Senate-passed civil rights bill now before the House.

Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, the GOP boss in the House, is insisting the bill be sent to a conference with the Senate to seek a compromise on the housing section. He has a majority of the Republicans with him, but Rep. Clark MacGregor of suburban Minneapolis, who wants the Senate bill accepted, says as many as 45 per cent of the 187 House Republicans are prepared to desert Ford and vote for the bill.

Ford's refusal to go along with the Senate bill also puts him at odds with his party's leader in the Senate, Everett M. Dirksen, who played a key role in breaking a Southern filibuster to get the bill passed.

Before New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller became a primary campaign dropout the division on both the urban and civil rights issues followed roughly the split among members favoring Nixon or Rockefeller for the presidential nomination.

Rockefeller's supporters felt it would be a calamity for the Republican party, needing urban support, to go into a presidential election without a clear-cut record of support for the Senate bill, particularly with George C. Wallace siphoning off Southern votes.

Now, civil rights leaders are urging Nixon to see if he can't get Ford to change his mind and accept the Senate bill.

Just as Rockefeller avoided openly tangling with Nixon in the name of party unity, so the divisions on issues are muted in the House.

But they are there, and if the Republicans should know the luxury of being the majority party in the next Congress, they will be hard to keep hidden.

Korean Reds Threaten Execution

TOKYO (AP) — One of the crewmen of the USS Pueblo was quoted today as saying the 82 crew members will be executed for spying if the United States fails to apologize.

The Korean Central News Agency distributed a letter it said was written by Lt. Stephen R. Harris, research officer of the ship, which pointed out that the penalty for espionage is death.

After saying "our lives have been spared because we sincerely and frankly confessed the crime," he added that the crew would not be released unless the United States confesses to espionage activities in North Korea's waters, assures the North it won't happen again and delivers an apology.

"If these conditions are not met, then we will be executed for the acts therefore," the agency said Harris wrote his mother and sister in Melrose, Mass.

Stevenson Spirit Over McCarthy

By JACK BELL
AP Political Writer
MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — The benevolent spirit of the late Adlai E. Stevenson must be hovering delightedly over the campaigning of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Like Stevenson, whom he admired greatly, McCarthy is imparting a freshness of wit and good humor to the ordinarily dull grind of grubbing for votes.

There is one difference. Stevenson, twice his party's presidential nominee, loathed primaries. He complained that all of the chores of making set speeches, ploughing through crowds grasping every hand in sight and attending cocktail parties for local political bigwigs didn't give a man time to think.

McCarthy, on the other hand, seems to take all of this traditional campaigning in stride. He never had so much national attention before and he is basking and expanding in it.

But there is nearly always on McCarthy's countenance the same wry smile of secret amusement that Stevenson used to wear. The faintly arched eyebrow hints at the inward wonderment that a man should be required to go through all the campaign antics to make himself a contender for the world's highest elective office.

If it had been left to Stevenson—and if it were left to McCarthy—there would be calm, serious discussion of the issues. And out of the monkeyshines.

Perhaps he doesn't do it as well as Stevenson, who was an indefatigable polisher of phrases, but McCarthy is adept at spicing his informal talks with little jokes on himself. He also has the same tendency as Stevenson to use pertinent quotations from the classics, poetry or prose that seem to fit the occasion.

In a recent speech, McCarthy took note of criticisms that his campaign organization was made up largely of college amateurs and lacked professional direction at the top.

"We may not be well organized at the top," he said, "but we are the best organized at the bottom that this country has ever seen."

He announced, with tongue in cheek, that if elected he would take down the fences around the White House. These well-patrolled barriers guard the President from anti-Vietnam and other demonstrators.

McCarthy poked at his chief opponent, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., for setting up so many campaign committees. He was especially resentful, he intimated, that one Kennedy committee had been set up to deal with the Irish.

"I had really thought that we had made it—I didn't know that we were still considered a special class in America," he said.

McCarthy announced that to offset the proliferation of Kennedy committees, "We are setting up a subcommittee on retired left-hand pitchers from the Three-I League."

If things keep on the way they are going, he said, there soon would have to be a subcommittee for each person in the country.

In the course of the speech, primarily devoted to civil rights, McCarthy managed to work in references to Caduce, the ancient poet, and Chesterton, the English essayist.

This was hardly par for the course, however, since many of his speeches go much further in establishing McCarthy as an unrepentant member of the intelligentsia—a standing avoided by most politicians on the make.

Nixon Favors Moratorium on Criticism

By BOB MONROE
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Richard M. Nixon says he favors a two-to-three week moratorium on criticism of President Johnson's Vietnam policy "while we explore this avenue for peace."

The leading contender for the Republican presidential nomination said Monday he would hold off making "the comprehensive statement on Vietnam which I had planned for this week."

But he added the statement was "all prepared and will be ready to deliver if the bombing pause fails to produce meaningful negotiations and a reduction of the fighting. I hope this is a speech that is never delivered."

The former vice president, in the city for the day, made his remarks in a prepared statement and in a subsequent television interview with CBS News.

Today he returns to Wisconsin for the primary with a stopover enroute in Cincinnati where he planned a news conference.

Nixon praised the President for his peace efforts but emphasized his view that "a bombing halt by itself would not be a step toward peace."

He said he assumed the president "would not have announced a bombing halt under present conditions unless his action was based on private diplomatic information available only to the government."

"I further assume that intensive and delicate diplomatic moves are now under way, possibly involving the Soviet Union," he said, adding that he decided on a moratorium "in order to avoid anything that might even inadvertently cause difficulty for our negotiators."

Nixon said, "I think that if this bombing pause has been agreed to or initiated because of some assurances that the administration has that it's going to bring some progress, then it would be a very good step."

"We'll know, I would say, within two or three weeks whether this pause was based on that or whether it was simply unilateral desperate action," he said. "If it was the latter it was a mistake."

He declared that "unless this bombing pause does produce some real progress toward peace, the disillusionment in this country is going to be very, very strong and the reaction will be to do more on the military side."

Nixon said the United States should remember that most U.S. casualties in the Korean War were suffered "after peace talks began and that a weak settlement in Vietnam would encourage further Communist aggression."

Decision Not Likely to End Stalemate

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's decision not to seek re-election isn't likely to break the congressional stalemate over much of his legislative program.

But in his Sunday night speech to the nation he might have breathed new life into his tax-increase proposal by making clear he would accept spending cuts in his budget.

That was the consensus of veteran Congress members as they took a new look at the picture Monday.

Their reasoning was based on the political logic that if an incumbent President who is likely to remain in power four more years couldn't get Congress moving, an outgoing executive would have less influence.

Senators and congressmen seeking re-election—and most of them are—no longer need fear possible political reprisals if they don't respond to White House pressures. The famed LBJ arm-twisting approach lost its firm grip with the President's decision not to seek another term.

Neither can the President hold out the promise of political rewards to the faithful for four more years if he leaves the White House next January.

"The President has scuttled his legislative program," one veteran House member commented.

"We will, in effect, be in a long period of 'lame duck' status," said Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex. "At this critical juncture in our history, we cannot afford a period of diminished influence from the White House."

This "diminished influence" has been apparent since Democrats lost so many seats in the 1966 House elections. While Johnson's domestic programs once flew through a cooperative Congress, they have difficulty keeping alive now.

Pending White House requests to project some programs into the future—for five years in some cases—aren't likely to be granted. One-year extensions may be the new order.

The major Johnson proposal most likely to be boosted on Capitol Hill is his request for a tax increase to cut down the federal deficit.

The House has blocked action on this, contending the President first should cut government spending.

Supporters of the proposal have tried to push it through the Senate and a vote on it was due in the Senate today.

In his Sunday night speech, Johnson said he expected Congress to cut his budget and indicated he would accept such action in exchange for passage of a tax bill—a 10 per cent surcharge on income taxes.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., whose House Ways and Means Committee has kept the income-tax boost on the shelf, labeled the President's comments as "clearly a step toward the kind of compromise we have all been talking about."

But another top Johnson proposal, an open-housing civil rights measure, may be in deeper trouble than it had been.

Senate Gets Tax Increase Answer Ready

By JOE HALL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is readying an answer to President Johnson's latest appeal for a tax increase.

Senate Democratic leaders voiced hope of getting a vote late today on a 10 per cent income tax surcharge offered as a rider to a House-passed excise tax bill.

The auto and telephone service excise rates which the measure would extend dropped automatically Monday. But the government has asked the companies to continue to collect them at the old rates since Congress is considered certain to extend them retroactively.

The key test on tying an income-tax increase to the bill will come on a package amendment sponsored by Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., and George A. Smathers, D-Fla.

This proposal also contains a $8 billion spending cut and other expenditure controls.

Smathers said he felt Johnson's Sunday night speech had given the amendment an important boost. The President not only renewed his plea for the tax hike but said he would go along with budget reductions voted by the Congress.

However, Williams said it would be a mistake to view the speech as an endorsement for the package amendment.

The Delaware Republican said he checked high administration officials and was told they were not supporting the package. They opposed it strongly in Senate Finance Committee hearings.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., floor manager for the legislation, said the administration still finds the specific spending restrictions in the amendment totally unacceptable.

For example, he said, one provision that would require a $15,000 rollback in the number of federal employees was completely unworkable.

Smathers and Long agreed that if the Senate adopts the amendment there is slight chance the House will accept it since the House always has been jealous of its right to originate major tax legislation.

Shocked by Withdrawal of Johnson

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — William W. Heath, the United States ambassador to Sweden, said Monday night that he was shocked and disappointed by President Johnson's withdrawal from the presidential race.

"I think our nation needed what he had to offer," Heath said. "I could see how terribly he'd aged in the last two or three years. . . the stresses and burdens of what he's done. . . and I wondered how much he should contribute, how much he should do, how much he should give."

Heath was in Little Rock to attend the annual meeting of the Board of Directors of Dillard Department Stores, Inc.

New Concept in Heart Transplants

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A high-ranking government heart researcher forecasts development by 1973 of a totally implantable artificial heart based on a new concept of energy supply: Use of the body's own digested food and inhaled oxygen.

Electrical energy to pump the robot heart would come from a fuel cell that would burn oxygen from the blood stream and also glucose, a form of sugar produced by food digested in the normal fashion.

Dr. Frank Hastings, chief of the artificial heart research program of the National Heart Institute, told The Associated Press that promising results have been achieved at the laboratory level in developing the fuel-cell concept.

He said it looks like the best prospect yet for ultimately making completely implantable artificial hearts available to hundreds of thousands of cardiac patients newly stricken each year. He indicated it would eliminate the need for human heart transplants.

The idea would be to graft the fuel-cell—consisting of a porous but tough, jelly-like plastic material—into the aorta, the body's major artery, beginning at the point where the blood vessel normally connects with the natural heart. The cell would employ a thin sheet of gold-alloy fibers which would act as a catalyst in promoting energy-producing chemical reactions.

Electrical energy, produced by the fuel-cell, would flow to the "muscles" of the nearby implanted artificial heart, enabling it to pump blood in and out of itself.

The robot heart itself would consist of a tough but flexible rubbery material, which would be covered with a thin envelope of living tissue fashioned from a vein in the patient's leg.

Indicating that energy-supply is the major problem in the quest for perfecting artificial hearts, Dr. Hastings said the fuel-cell concept has certain theoretical advantages—including potentially greater safety—over a system that envisions using radioactive plutonium as the power source. A version of the latter system is also being developed by the National Heart Institute in cooperation with the Atomic Energy Commission.

Hastings said the fuel-cell is being developed under a $325,000 NHI contract by the Monsanto Research Corp. of Everett, Mass., one of many firms cooperating in the institute's many-faceted, $8.5 million-a-year program aimed at developing improved "circulatory assist devices," including artificial hearts.

He said that while certain problems remain to be solved, the first robot heart employing the system should be ready for human use "in four to five years."

Candidate Names Manager

PARAGOULD, Ark. (AP) — Dr. Ralph Ratton of Paragould, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for congressman from the 1st District, has named Dick Herget his campaign chairman.

Herget, a Paragould insurance man, said Monday Ratton's headquarters at Paragould would be formally opened at a later date.

Arkla Not to Raise Rates

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Lindsey Hatchett, vice president of Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co., informed the state Public Service Commission Monday that the firm would not raise its rates to domestic customers on its integrated system this year.

Hatchett said, however, that the cost of gas to the firm had risen enough to establish an increase of 2 cents a 1,000 cubic feet.

Top Czech Prober Is Found Hanged

By HANNS NEUERBOURG
Associated Press Writer
TYNEC, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Czechoslovakia's top investigator of Stalinist crimes was found hanged from a tree today, five days after his mysterious disappearance.

Police in this village south of Prague said "we are 99 per cent sure" that Dr. Jozef Brestansky, deputy president of the Supreme Court, was a suicide. A close friend, talking to reporters before his death was announced, had discounted the possibility.

Czech police, detectives and photographers kept Brestansky's body from view.

Brestansky, who was heading an investigation of persecution during Czechoslovakia's decade of Stalinist repression in the 1950's, vanished Thursday on his way from the Supreme Court to the Justice Ministry in downtown Prague.

His death comes in the midst of Czechoslovakia's drive toward liberalization. Only three weeks ago, Deputy Vladimir Janko, an old-liner, was found fatally wounded. Officials called his death a suicide.

Police had said they were looking for a visitor to Brestansky's office who told secretaries he was carrying secret papers. The two talked only two minutes before the visitor left the judge's chambers, on the eve of his disappearance, witnesses said.

Dr. Josef Hambalek, president of the Bratislava district court and a long-time friend, said he had spoken to Brestansky by phone shortly before he dropped from sight. He excluded the possibility of suicide, saying the judge, 42, was a person of "strong character."

bers have 16 per cent of the weighted votes which are based on the amount of money each country has contributed to the IMF.

The United States already has a veto over the affected operations and would retain it.

Basic reforms now planned would require an 85 per cent weighted vote to carry out these operations.

— An increase in fund quotas. This now requires an 80 per cent vote and the United States, with about 25 per cent of the fund's entire subscription of $21 billion, has the only veto now.

— Increasing or decreasing the price of gold. This now requires a majority vote with the United States and the United Kingdom each having a veto.

— A new procedure for interpreting the IMF's Articles of Agreement. Any top-level interpretation could be overturned by an 85 per cent weighted vote of member nations.

It would also require an 85 per cent vote to actually create the new money which would supplement the money now used by nations—gold, dollars and British pounds—to carry on trade.

U.S. officials would be a lot happier if France finally decided to go along with the new plan but one said "it's a workable, viable plan" without French participation. France has about 4 1/4 per cent of the IMF's voting power.

Under the Stockholm agreement, two major steps remain — the first to approve the basic money machinery and the second to put the plan into action.

Approval of the machinery requires an 80 per cent weighted vote of the IMF membership with at least 65 countries agreeing.

Concessions by U.S. in Gold Pact

By JOSEPH R. COVNE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States granted some sweetening concessions to continental Europe in winning agreement this past weekend on a plan to create new international money.

The big sweetener is a veto over some basic operations of the International Monetary Fund by the six Common Market countries.

This was revealed by U.S. officials who said the new plan for paper gold adopted at Stockholm this past weekend can work without French participation but it will be a year at the earliest, and undoubtedly longer, before any paper gold will change hands.

"They can't wreck it," one official said of French reluctance to go along with the plan approved by the other nine richest nations of the non-Communist world—including France's five common market partners.

Congress will be asked to approve this year the new arrangement—together with the basic reform in the IMF—and government officials say they are optimistic about its chances in both the House and the Senate.

The IMF reforms consist of changes in voting requirements on three specific issues to give a veto to the Common Market—France, Germany, Italy, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg.

Thinks GOPs May Capture More Seats

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller said Monday he believed that the Republican party had a chance to capture an additional 20 to 30 seats in the Arkansas House this November.

Rockefeller said the voting records of legislators who hold seats the GOP believes most vulnerable were being analyzed by the party.

The governor also said he saw no reason why Republicans should file for office any sooner than necessary. He said if he were running for a legislative office he would "wait as close to the filing deadline as possible."

Rockefeller said he had heard six or more persons mentioned as possible candidates for the five constitutional offices not held by Republicans.

Rockefeller said he planned to call his second special session of the legislature this year about May 13. He said he hoped a tax increase would not be necessary but that he did believe a tax increase was inevitable.

The governor said he would meet with department heads Friday to discuss the state's financial problems. He said he would be in a better position to assess the state's financial situation after the meeting.

Rockefeller had planned to release the State Police report of its investigation of the unearthing of three human skeletons at Cummins Prison Farm Monday. He postponed releasing the report, however, because his legal adviser, G. Thomas Elsele, was called out of the city.

Rockefeller said he hoped to release a condensed version of the report before the end of the week.

Enforcing Mixed Drink Law Tough

By PETE YOUNG
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Harrel Hughes, director of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board, said Monday he would stand behind his pledge to enforce mixed drink laws, but indicated that enforcement would be a long, slow process.

Hughes refused to discuss in detail what ABC agents have been doing since Hughes led them on a raid of the Top of the Rock Club March 23.

"We are going to enforce every law put on the book," Hughes said. "We are going to do whatever it takes to stop the sale of mixed drinks in Arkansas."

But when asked what that action constituted, Hughes pointed out, "There are only 15 (ABC) agents scattered throughout the state."

"We are depending on local officials to enforce the laws," he said.

Hughes said he mailed letters to officers earlier asking them to cooperate in enforcing liquor laws.

Hughes said the ABC board wanted to "give the local authorities an opportunity to enforce the law themselves." He said he would act when the local officials didn't but he would not set a deadline for local action.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

"Kill the Umpire!"

For verbal pyrotechnics, few events can equal a hard-fought game of baseball. As a rule the sound and fury signify nothing serious. But at times, matters do get out of hand.

Suppose, for example, that the fan who yells "Kill the umpire!" really takes a swing at him. What are the legal consequences?

For one thing, the umpire may hold the fan liable for the damage he inflicts. The law draws a sharp line between violent words and violent deeds.

But there may be further complications. Take this case:

An umpire, slugged by an irate fan, decided that the real villain was the home team's peppy manager. Suing the manager for damages, the umpire argued in court: "He kept heckling me all through the game. He knew perfectly well that he was getting the local fans all worked up against me. Therefore, he was responsible for my injury."

But the court refused to pin legal liability on the manager. The judge said it would be unfair to blame a manager for the antics of "every emotionally unstable person who might arrive at the game spilling for a fight."

Furthermore, merely by taking on such a job in the first place, an umpire assumes a certain amount of risk.

In one case a college student, volunteering to umpire in a practice game, took up a position close behind the netting of the batting cage. A fast foul ball thudded into the netting and struck the student in the eye.

In due course he sued the school for damages, complaining that there was "too much slack in the netting. But the court ruled that this was a risk he himself had assumed by standing in such a vulnerable spot."

Still, umpires do have the consolation of yielding vast power within the game itself. According to Section 9.02 of the Official Baseball Rules, the umpire's call, on almost every question, is the final word on the subject. With no appeal from his decisions, the umpire has the kind of authority that a judge on the bench might well envy.

One umpire displayed a keen sense of baseball law when he said: "They ain't strikes, they ain't balls, they ain't nothin' 'till I call 'em!"

It in the first place was a stupendous blunder and now he proposes to retreat and maybe surrender," McClellan said.

Rep. David Pryor, D-Ark., said he would support the bombing halt.

Pryor said, however, that if Hanoi "does not react within a certain period — I don't know what period—I think the bombing will be resumed."

Rep. John Paul Hammer-schmidt, R-Ark., said he felt Johnson's position on the bombing was "reasonable and we should try it."

Rep. E. C. "Took" Cathings, D-Ark., said Johnson's proposals would put North Vietnam on the defensive and said he felt they were good ideas.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., said his House Ways and Means Committee would want to see more cuts in government expenditures before making a decision on Johnson's proposed 10 per cent surtax.

The surtax increase has been bottled up in Mills' committee. Mills said he was particularly impressed by Johnson's statement that he expected, and would accept, a cut in his budget by Congress.

"This is clearly a step toward the kind of compromise we have all been talking about," Mills said. "I thought the President made a splendid speech and delivered it better than any other speech of his I have heard."

Mills said he was "shocked and surprised at Johnson's withdrawal from the presidential race."

McClellan said Johnson's withdrawal was not a shocking surprise by any means but that he had not expected it.

Pryor said he was "flabbergasted" at Johnson's announcement. Cathings said he thought Johnson's withdrawal would aid party stabilization.

Fulbright said Johnson's announcement would make the nomination very interesting.

"This will provide a re-assessment, an open discussion of where we are going and what our policy is," said Fulbright.

freed from bombing by the President's order is a rail line extending southwestward out of Red China into Hanoi. The line carries a substantial amount of small arms from China.

This rail line has to be hit regularly to disrupt its use. In addition, the military would have liked to continue striking industrial plants and military complexes located in the same northeast quadrant.

How much the enemy benefits from the cessation—assuming Hanoi doesn't move immediately toward negotiations—will obviously depend on how long the bombing halt lasts, officials said.

Defense officials who declined to be identified told newsmen there is no time limit on the bombing cessation.

But these officials also pointed out the United States is two months away from the best flying weather over North Vietnam—throwing open the possibility American planes might resume full operations this summer if Hanoi takes no reciprocal act of de-escalation.

Defense officials declined to state exactly what area may be bombed under the President's guidelines.

Overture for Peace Is Welcomed

LONDON (AP) — President Johnson's new overture for peace in Vietnam was welcomed across Europe and by some of America's Asian allies today. But diplomatic authorities in London expect Hanoi to reject it because of the President's companion announcement that he is not a candidate for re-election.

These informants said Johnson's decision not to run again may tempt the Vietnamese Communists—with Red Chinese encouragement—to battle on in hopes of the election of a "peace candidate" who might give them better terms. But the emergence of a "win the war" candidate with a strong chance of being elected probably would convince Hanoi it should negotiate now, these sources said.

There was no immediate comment on the President's speech from the foreign quarters whose reaction mattered most—North Vietnam, the Viet Cong and the Soviet Union.

Moscow Radio briefly reported Johnson's decision to curtail the air attacks on North Vietnam but made no mention of his decision not to seek re-election.

The British government welcomed the bombing cutback, which it said "should offer a further opportunity of achieving a just and honorable peace."

The government said it was "examining urgently how best (it) can respond to President Johnson's invitation to exert (its) influence to end the conflict."

Presumably the British will renew their pressure for another Geneva conference on Vietnam. Britain and the Soviet Union were cochairmen of the 1954 conference which ended the French war in Vietnam, but so far the Russians have refused to join in calling another such parley.

A spokesman for Prime Minister Harold Wilson refused to comment on the President's decision to withdraw from the electoral campaign. But some British officials expressed the fear that the U.S. government would become a lame duck administration that might bring inter-allied decision-making to a halt until January.

In Paris, two interpretations were put on the President's political move: that he was bowing to mounting pressure in the United States against his policies, and that he hoped to present the Democratic convention with a peace agreement which would result in the "grateful" convention drafting him for another term. Japanese officials, whose government reluctantly supported the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam, welcomed the de-escalation move. The officials speculated that Johnson made his announcement after receiving some positive word that it would get favorable reaction from Hanoi.

Among America's Asian allies, officials in Thailand were shaken and perturbed by Johnson's political exit. Premier Thanom Kittikachorn said he felt that if Sen. Robert F. Kennedy was elected, the United States would abandon Asia.

Another supporter of American policy in Vietnam, Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman of Malaysia, said he hoped the decision to cut back the bombing did not mean the Americans were giving up "the fight to preserve democracy against communism."

Court Ruling on Vote Power Is Pure Justice

The United States Supreme Court in its decision Monday brought the concept of "one-man, one-vote" down to the local level of government.

The original ruling dealt with district apportionment by states, but yesterday's decision applied the same principle to county and city government. The specific case before the court was a complaint from Midland county, Texas, that the apportionment on voting for members of the county governing board was "loaded" in favor of the rural areas, virtually disenfranchising citizens of the City of Midland, center of the county's population. Midland county was ordered to rezone the voting districts so representation would be equal between city and country residents.

Where you live should have nothing to do with how you feel about districting laws. This is a self-governing republic in which all adult citizens are supposed to have an equal voice. At least those citizens who are self-supporting — although this latter point is merely an editorial opinion and was not before the court Monday.

Our farm readers might suggest that I am writing this from the viewpoint of a city resident since newspapers by their very nature have to be published in cities. But The Star's record will show that we have upheld the one-man, one-vote principle even when it favored the big cities and worked against our small one.

Twelve years ago, in 1956, Arkansas had before it an initiative petition for Constitutional Amendment No. 45, which proposed to "freeze" the apportionment of state senators and representatives to the area population figures of that day.

Amendment 45 "froze" the senatorial districts completely, and required that every county, however small, have at least one representative.

The measure would have helped the rural areas and small cities like Hope, but would have damaged Little Rock, Fort Smith, Pine Bluff, and others, reducing their voice in government and disenfranchising citizens in areas where the population was increasing.

Amendment 45 was wrong and we fought it as a violation of the rules of fair play in this self-governing republic.

Nevertheless the people of Arkansas enacted Amendment 45 by 197,602 to 143,100.

The people aren't always right. Editors aren't always wrong.

That's why we have courts in this republic.

And on Monday the highest court in the land held that your editor was right on the unpopular shot he called 12 years ago.

No Radical Affect Seen in Arkansas

By ROBERT L. SHAW
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The U. S. Supreme Court's extension of the one-man, one-vote doctrine to county and city governments probably will affect Arkansas local government, according to an official of the Arkansas Municipal League.

Asst. Director William G. Fleming said today, however, the decision probably would have greater impact at the county level and on the current method of selecting justices of the peace than on the cities.

But he said he didn't think the court's ruling would have immediate impact.

"I don't think it's anything the people need to be disturbed about," he said. "And until we get some more guidelines I don't see any need to rush in to it."

Fleming said the reason he suspected that the ruling might have little effect on the cities is that Arkansas law requires that aldermen must run city-wide.

He said that, viewed with past court decisions in similar circumstances, this might satisfy the one-man, one-vote doctrine although aldermen might represent districts with disparities in population.

Humphrey to Meet With LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey heads for a crucial meeting with President Johnson after telling supporters he'll say "later on" whether he will seek the presidency.

Humphrey said they would meet today. Johnson also has on tap a meeting with Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, who already is contending for the Democratic nomination, with no date announced. Kennedy requested the meeting to discuss national unity following Johnson's startling announcement Sunday night that he won't seek or accept re-nomination.

Johnson told newsmen Monday he would grant Kennedy's request.

Johnson's announced exit prompted Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, another Democratic contender, to make last-minute efforts to counter a potential sympathy vote for the President in today's Wisconsin primary.

Only the President and McCarthy are listed on the Democratic ballot there and private polls taken before Johnson's announcement showed McCarthy way ahead.

In a nationally broadcast speech on primary eve McCarthy said Johnson's decision not to run again "deserves, I think, the approval, the honor and the respect of every citizen of the United States."

Humphrey, who was on a diplomatic mission in Mexico when Johnson made his decision public, stepped from a plane into the chilly Washington air late Monday night and got a warm welcome from about 500 newsmen, many of them bearing placards urging him to run.

"I will meet with President Johnson tomorrow and I shall be talking to you later on," Humphrey told them.

Standing behind him as he read his statement was Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, a former three-term governor of Minnesota who was Humphrey's protege early in their careers.

Back to Past: Our Favorite Feast Is Banquet of Memory

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Nostalgia has always been one of man's favorite pastimes—at any age, in all eras.

The growing child reads fairy tales that begin with the immortal words, "Once upon a time." He is very curious about his own brief past, and is vastly entertained when his parents tell him anecdotes about his infancy.

Adults, of course, tend to spend more time recalling yesterday than they do in planning for tomorrow. After all, no matter how rough it may have been, yesterday is safer. We are more comfortable with yesterday than we are with tomorrow because we have endured its threats and survived its perils. It consoles us more than it hurts us.

The past is so popular today that there now is even a Nostalgia Book Club which each month recommends to its members new books about bygone days and historic figures.

Your own stock of nostalgia is pretty extensive if you can look back and remember when—

The usual reason a fellow grew a mustache was to hide the fact he had a hare lip.

Senators Critical of LBJ Relieved That He Is Not Running Again

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic senators openly critical of President Johnson's Vietnam policies are privately expressing relief that he has decided against running again.

Many had viewed Johnson as the party's likely nominee and felt that—if this were the case—they would be hard-pressed to run under his political mantle with their opposition to his war policies a matter of public record for opponents to seize on.

In this presidential election year, Democrats face stiff fights in both the Senate and House. Republicans express confidence in their chances of winning 31 seats and grabbing House control while sharply reducing the nearly 2-1 Democratic majority in the Senate.

Of 35 Senate seats being contested, 23 are held by Democrats, including 8 outspoken critics of U.S. war policies.

"It seems to me it (Johnson's decision) reduces some of the tension and conflict in the campaign," Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., a war policy critic, said in an interview. He added that he thought it would make his own re-election bid easier.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., who has generally stood by the President on the war issue, said he doubts the President's decision will have a major impact on his own re-election bid.

But he acknowledged "the chances of keeping unity might be better," although adding he has always expected most Democrats to line up behind whoever the nominee is.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., a war policy critic whose current term still has two years to run, said he thinks the President's decision pleased the Democratic senators running for re-election.

Besides McGovern, seeking his second term in a normally Republican state, Democratic opponents of Vietnam policies running this year include Sens. Wayne Morse of Oregon, Frank Church of Idaho, J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas, Ernest Gruening of Alaska, Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin, Joseph S. Clark of Pennsylvania and Abraham A. Ribicoff of Connecticut.

For some weeks, Senate and House Democrats who oppose Johnson on the war have been walking a political tightrope, afraid to offend either wing of their divided party and worried about the possibility of having to campaign on a ticket headed by a President of whom they were critical.

This is the major reason for

Thieu Would Hate to See Withdrawal

By BARRY KRAMER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu said today his government could agree to a gradual withdrawal of U.S. troops beginning by the end of this year, but he made clear he would hate to see them go.

In his first comments on President Johnson's de-escalation speech Sunday night, Thieu told a news conference that only more troops can hasten the end of the war. He also said if the United States withdraws from Vietnam, "they will be avoiding their responsibility and deserting the free world."

But when asked by what date he thought the United States could begin to withdraw, Thieu replied: "If the United States requests a withdrawal of its troops, we can agree to a gradual withdrawal beginning by the end of 1968. Of course, we will never ask the United States to go home, but if the U.S. government wants it, we can begin to relieve some American troops with our new effort to mobilization."

Thieu recently announced the South Vietnamese armed forces would be increased 135,000 men by the middle of the year and said general mobilization would be necessary after that.

Although an aide said earlier that Thieu had accepted President Johnson's invitation to visit the United States, Thieu said the invitation was still under consideration. He said the formal invitation had been received "only this morning," some hours after Johnson revealed it in a speech in Chicago.

A spokesman for the South Vietnamese government said earlier that the date of the visit would depend on Thieu's schedule and Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky would not accompany him.

Thieu told the news conference the South Vietnamese government had agreed to the curtailment in U.S. bombing of North Vietnam, but "this is the last time we want to show our good will."

He said if there is no satisfactory response from Hanoi his government will not delay its general mobilization order "We will do it now."

Like President Johnson in his announcement of the bombing curtailment, Thieu set no deadline for Hanoi's response.

Officials Think Cong to Build Up Supplies During Bombing Lull

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Air Force officials say the North Vietnamese are likely to take advantage of the U.S. bombing limitation by preparing a massive supply run southward.

The allied forces face the job of trying to intercept the new flow of goods ticketed for enemy troops in South Vietnam, the Air Force sources added.

They said a month-long bombing halt would permit the Communists to rush 100,000 tons of supplies South.

In other Pentagon reaction to President Johnson's Sunday night speech on Vietnam, defense officials said the administration plans to mobilize up to 60,000 reservists. But they stressed the figure could vary up or down depending on Pentagon studies under way.

The Pentagon is expected Wednesday to issue an initial mobilization order affecting 15,000 men.

The President has ordered limited air attacks to the area above the Demilitarized Zone, automatically freeing Communist truck and rail movement in the upper bulge of North Vietnam.

Johnson expressed hope the

Thinks Cong Foolish Not to Respond

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., said Monday that the North Vietnamese would be "extremely foolish" if they did not respond soon to moves announced Sunday by President Johnson.

"I think this is a very useful move by the President," Fulbright said. "I think the president's statement shows he is really determined to bring about peace, a liquidation of the war."

"I'm sure they (the North Vietnamese) were taken by surprise, as practically all of us were, and it will take a bit of time for them to sort out their thoughts," Fulbright said. "But I would say that within a few days they should make some move."

Johnson called for restricting the bombing area in North Vietnam.

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., said he couldn't understand Johnson's statements on the bombing.

"If he means a step to pull out of the war, gradually de-escalate until we get the troops out and negotiate at any cost on any terms to try to end the war — if that is what he means, then we will have expended great treasure, the lives of many troops will have been spent in vain," McClellan said. First Enemy Reaction to LBJ Bid Cool

TOKYO (AP) — North Vietnam's official newspaper charged the United States is planning a "new plot" in Vietnam and described an American peace offer as a "fraud," a Japanese report from Hanoi said today.

The official Communist newspaper Nhan Dan apparently was referring to President Johnson's order Sunday halting the bombing of most of North Vietnam and calling for peace talks. But it made no specific mention of Johnson's offer.

However, the North Vietnamese army newspaper, quoted by the Soviet news agency Tass, said Johnson was trying to mislead public opinion and he had not called for an unconditional halt to bombing in the North. This was considered the first North Vietnamese reaction to Johnson's offer.

The pro-Communist Japanese Dempa News Agency said Nhan Dan declared: "The United

In a program arranged by W. L. Tate, the Hope Lions Club heard the evangelistic team that is leading a revival at First Baptist Church, at its noon luncheon Monday at Town & Country.

Dr. Furr discussed the need of spiritual recovery in America. This would call for returning to the use of the Bible and hearing the word of God, calling on help of the Holy Spirit through prayer and witnessing by word and example, Dr. Furr stressed.

Livestock Marketing Survey Study

A group of Hempstead County cattlemen and farm leaders met with their contemporaries last week to launch a Farm Bureau livestock marketing survey.

Attending from Hempstead County were Ralph Montgomery, Tom Jones, David Cummings, Wayne Attebury, James M. Walker, Robert Parham, Autrey Wilson, Jerry Alexander, and Calvin Caldwell.

In turn, the County Farm Bureau will survey a sizable sample of cattlemen locally to determine the volume of cattle marketed, their assessment of available marketing facilities and what, if any, improvements they recommend to strengthen the existing marketing system. The study is part of a study conducted by Arkansas Farm Bureau, the Agricultural Extension Service, and American Farm Bureau Federation.
